Michigan-Mellon Humanities Fellows in Egalitarianism and the Metropolis

Applications open for 1-Year or 2-Year Post-Graduate Fellowship
Submission Deadline: January 11, 2016

MEICGN MELLN PRJCT ON EGAALITRANISM AND THE METROPOLIS
The Michigan-Mellon Project on Egalitarianism and the Metropolis is a 1-year academic and research initiative focused on the intersections of architecture, urbanism, and the humanities, with particular emphasis on the role of egalitarianism in shaping urban development. The program seeks to explore the ways in which architectural and design practices can be informed by broader questions of social justice, social movements, and transformative cultural movements—both historically and contemporaneously. The emphasis is on ideas and their specificity, with a focus on human interaction and the physical experience of a city and its inhabitants. The program seeks to expand the role of architectural and design practices in informing social policy decisions, while building upon the growing body of literature critical to the urban condition that for example, reveals the ways in which architecture and design can be impediments to urban development.

FELLOWSHIP STATEMENT
The fellow will work within a program of research and writing in the field of egalitarianism and the metropolis. The program seeks to explore the ways in which architectural and design practices can be informed by broader questions of social justice, social movements, and transformative cultural movements—both historically and contemporaneously. The emphasis is on ideas and their specificity, with a focus on human interaction and the physical experience of a city and its inhabitants. The program seeks to expand the role of architectural and design practices in informing social policy decisions, while building upon the growing body of literature critical to the urban condition that for example, reveals the ways in which architecture and design can be impediments to urban development.

QUALIFICATIONS
The fellow will have completed a PhD in a field related to architecture, urbanism, or the humanities, with particular emphasis on the role of egalitarianism in shaping urban development. The fellow will work within a program of research and writing in the field of egalitarianism and the metropolis. The program seeks to explore the ways in which architectural and design practices can be informed by broader questions of social justice, social movements, and transformative cultural movements—both historically and contemporaneously. The emphasis is on ideas and their specificity, with a focus on human interaction and the physical experience of a city and its inhabitants. The program seeks to expand the role of architectural and design practices in informing social policy decisions, while building upon the growing body of literature critical to the urban condition that for example, reveals the ways in which architecture and design can be impediments to urban development.

APPLICATION DEADLINES
- January 11, 2016
- February 1, 2016
- March 1, 2016
- April 1, 2016
- May 1, 2016
- June 1, 2016
- July 1, 2016
- August 1, 2016
- September 1, 2016
- October 1, 2016
- November 1, 2016
- December 1, 2016

APPLICATION QUESTIONS
For more information, please contact the program director, Dr. Jane Smith, at jsmith@umich.edu or (734) 936-1234.

PROGRAM 🔍 MICHIGAN MELLON UNIVERSITY

© 2016 Michigan-Mellon University
All rights reserved.

Michigan-Mellon Humanities Fellows in Egalitarianism and the Metropolis

Applications open for 1-Year or 2-Year Post-Graduate Fellowship
Submission Deadline: January 11, 2016

MEICGN MELLN PRJCT ON EGAALITRANISM AND THE METROPOLIS
The Michigan-Mellon Project on Egalitarianism and the Metropolis is a 1-year academic and research initiative focused on the intersections of architecture, urbanism, and the humanities, with particular emphasis on the role of egalitarianism in shaping urban development. The program seeks to explore the ways in which architectural and design practices can be informed by broader questions of social justice, social movements, and transformative cultural movements—both historically and contemporaneously. The emphasis is on ideas and their specificity, with a focus on human interaction and the physical experience of a city and its inhabitants. The program seeks to expand the role of architectural and design practices in informing social policy decisions, while building upon the growing body of literature critical to the urban condition that for example, reveals the ways in which architecture and design can be impediments to urban development.

FELLOWSHIP STATEMENT
The fellow will work within a program of research and writing in the field of egalitarianism and the metropolis. The program seeks to explore the ways in which architectural and design practices can be informed by broader questions of social justice, social movements, and transformative cultural movements—both historically and contemporaneously. The emphasis is on ideas and their specificity, with a focus on human interaction and the physical experience of a city and its inhabitants. The program seeks to expand the role of architectural and design practices in informing social policy decisions, while building upon the growing body of literature critical to the urban condition that for example, reveals the ways in which architecture and design can be impediments to urban development.

QUALIFICATIONS
The fellow will have completed a PhD in a field related to architecture, urbanism, or the humanities, with particular emphasis on the role of egalitarianism in shaping urban development. The fellow will work within a program of research and writing in the field of egalitarianism and the metropolis. The program seeks to explore the ways in which architectural and design practices can be informed by broader questions of social justice, social movements, and transformative cultural movements—both historically and contemporaneously. The emphasis is on ideas and their specificity, with a focus on human interaction and the physical experience of a city and its inhabitants. The program seeks to expand the role of architectural and design practices in informing social policy decisions, while building upon the growing body of literature critical to the urban condition that for example, reveals the ways in which architecture and design can be impediments to urban development.

APPLICATION DEADLINES
- January 11, 2016
- February 1, 2016
- March 1, 2016
- April 1, 2016
- May 1, 2016
- June 1, 2016
- July 1, 2016
- August 1, 2016
- September 1, 2016
- October 1, 2016
- November 1, 2016
- December 1, 2016

APPLICATION QUESTIONS
For more information, please contact the program director, Dr. Jane Smith, at jsmith@umich.edu or (734) 936-1234.

PROGRAM 🔍 MICHIGAN MELLON UNIVERSITY

© 2016 Michigan-Mellon University
All rights reserved.