Between 2004-6, advisor to the State of Michigan team leading the Cool Cities initiative, including staff from the Governor's Office, the Department of Labor and Economic Growth, and Michigan State Housing Development Authority; see above for related monographs and proceedings report on "Cool Cities." I managed a small grant designed to assist the State in understanding mechanisms necessary to educate local communities about creating "creative cities."

Co-founded Urban Planning Partnerships and Urban Collaborators, serving Michigan's communities with university resources, 1998- 2007. Urban Planning Partnerships is an initiative funded by MSU Extension which links Urban and Regional Planning students with community planning needs in Michigan's cities and small towns. Urban Collaborators is an initiative funded by MSU Extension that offers community planning assistance, places student interns, and supports university-community partnerships in several key cities, including Detroit, Flint, Saginaw, Lansing, Pontiac, and Grand Rapids. I was co-director of both until June, 2007.
