

TERRA

Wallenberg Studio, UG4

Arch 442

Winter 2024

MWF 1 - 5pm

Instructor: Dawn Gilpin, dgilpin@umich.edu

The discourse in architecture has shifted and stands in the threshold of uncertainty as it relates to commitments of the disciplinary agendas driven by increasingly global volatility and unstable ground. Terra, the sacred, mythical, ecological, and political site of practice serves as the muse for this studio as one engages with a light touch the patriarchal heavy-handed constructed landscapes that we will reconsider and reimagine. Acts of ritual, regeneration, ecological balance, sustenance, and civility serve as parameters by which this studio will build speculative fictions of new worlds.

The realm of architecture finds itself at a fascinating crossroads, teetering on the edge of uncertainty, a precipice defined by the shifting landscape of global dynamics and the unpredictability of its foundation. Within this transformative context, the studio's focus is drawn to Terra, a multifaceted entity encapsulating the sacred, mythical, ecological, and political dimensions – an inspiring muse for architectural practice.

This endeavor involves delicately engaging with existing landscape shaped by heavy-handed patriarchal influence. These landscapes, previously constructed with imposing force, are poised for a profound reconsideration and imaginative reconstruction. The studio approaches this task with a nuanced touch, a sensitivity that seeks to unravel and reimagine these structures in a more nuanced and enlightened manner, at multiple scales.

The guiding force behind this architectural exploration encompasses a diverse range of principles, including acts of ritual, regeneration, ecological equilibrium, sustenance, and civility. These elements serve as the drivers and will shape the studio's endeavors. Within this framework the studio aspires to weave together speculative fictions, envisioning entirely new worlds that transcend the conventional boundaries of architectural discourse.

The studio's narrative unfolds as a delicate dance between the uncertainties of the present architectural discourse, the rich inspiration drawn from Terra, and the transformative power of rituals and ecological considerations. It is a narrative of reimagination, where the heavy-handed past is carefully unraveled and reconstructed into speculative fictions that promise to make visible new, innovative worlds.